MACKEY'S HARD LUCK.

Former Railway King Goes to Work as a Factory Hand.

A few years ago the Mackey system of railroads in the west was only second in importance to the Vanderbilt and Gould lines. D. J.
Mackey, president, principal owner, was many times a millionaire. He is now a workman in a factory at Anderson, Ind., and is thankful for the job, for he needs it. Mackey's troubles began when he tried to control competitive interests. His failure to heed the demands of the New York stockholders and his falling out with H.
H. Porter, president of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, which Mackey threatened to parallel, brought his downfall. A general fight of brains was begun on the Mackey stocks on the New York exchange. A few days later a hurried meeting of directors of the E and T H. ordered an application to the courts for a receiver. The receiver was put in charge. Mackey rushed to New York, called a stockholders' meeting and showed them a receiver was not needed and would ruin them.
All the time Mackey's stocks were dropping steadily, and he was gradually losing everything in his rush to protect his holdings. The court was called on to dismiss the receiver and did so. Mackey stocks went up with a bound.

The people of his town—in fact, the financiers of the west—called this a great coup. When he returned home from New York, Mackey was met at the depot by a procession of several hundred of the most prominent men of the city and a brass band. They literally carried him on their shoulders to his hotel. From the balcony he made a speech, and all the great men of the town talked. Mackey was the wonder, the idol of the hour.
It was gossiped at times that John D. Rockefeller and others of his craze were with Mackey in the crowd. Two weeks later, when the bear crowd hammered Mackey's stocks down to the sixties, it was said Rockefeller had squeezed Mackey out. The next time he got home from New York Mackey was a broken hearted, almost dollarless man. His tools were either in the hands of receivers or of rival financiers and he was humiliated and broken spirited.

Out of the wreck he clung to a hotel. The courts some time ago ordered the hotel sold. Mrs. Mackey prayed to be allowed the one room that had been hers. The court took possession of everything else, and it was arranged that she should be allowed to occupy that until she died. Her death came a few weeks ago. Years ago she had built a beautiful chapel at a cost of $50,000 for Grace Presbyterian church. When she died her husband did not have enough money to bury her properly.
The church took charge and saw to her interment in the family lot as became her.
Two or three days later her sister found in the dress she had died in a roll of money. It contained $250.
She had saved it that she might have a decent burial. The church was repaid with this money.

Wanted—A Wife.

The Wetaskwin "Free Lance" sends the following humorous application for a wife to Mrs. Livingstone, who has been commissioned to import a number of girls from Great Britain:—

"We want a freckled, pasty complexion, green eyed blond, with a concave chest, height six feet, and able to dig post holes. We shall insist on her wearing a wrapper and carpet slippers round the house, and she will also be expected to wear hairpins. We cannot have our wife tying up her hair with binding twine. Neither must she be a heavy drinker. If there is any drinking to be done we can attend to it. She must have a trousseau that will last the rest of her natural life, as the Free Lance will not be in a position to blow itself for steel corsets and striped stockings for some years to come.
However, should she run out of carpet slippers we might strain a point and rustle her up a couple of old Peterboro' canoes in Edmonton.
As soon as we get her we will publish a cut of her in this paper."

A Northern Explorer.

Mr. David T. Hanbury of London Eng., who has been in Winnipeg for the past ten days, left last evening for the far north on an exploring expedition. He goes first to Selkirk, from there he takes steamer to Norway House, then by canoe he sails down the Nelson river or Hays river, catching the Hudson's Bay steamer at York Factory and taking passage on it to Chesterfield Inlet, which point he will probably reach early in July. He will then ascend the inlet to Baker lake, which is known territory, but beyond this lake there is a broad field marked "unexplored" territory and here Mr.
Hanbury will spend the remainder of the summer, returning to Edmonton after the lakes freeze over.
Mr. Hanbury goes out well outfitted by the H. B. Co. and will only have a small party with him. He has, however, spent many winters in the northern regions.

Sentenced to Death.

Bracebridge, May 27.—W. J.
Hammond was a second time convicted of the murder of his wife, Kate Tough Hammond, about two years ago, ostensibly for the insurance he placed on her life shortly after wedding her. The jury was out an hour and a half. B. B.
O'Leary presented; E. F. B. Johnston defended. Chief Justice Meredith charged against the prisoner. Hammond had nothing to say before the sentence and heard the verdict unflinchingly. He was sentenced to be hanged on Sept. 15.

It is undoubtedly a fact that our grandmothers, the pioneer women of the country, led a hard laborious life.
They lived in the housewives of to-day.
In spite of this fact they bore their husbands healthy, robust sons and daughters, and did not become weak, complaining invalids as a consequence.

There are probably several reasons for this. One is that they lived more in the open air, and another, and probably the most influential of all, is that they were less prudish than the women of to-day.
They were not ashamed to know something of their own physical make-up. They were not too nice to take care of their health in a womanly way. Women now-a-days suffer untold tortures in silence, because of weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism, rather than consult a physician, or even talk upon the subject to their own husbands. They imagine that troubles of this description can only be cured by undergoing the disgusting examinations and local treatment insisted upon by the average modern physician. Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures all diseases peculiar to women in the privacy of their own homes. It does away with the necessity for examinations and local treatment. It acts directly on the important organs concerned, making them strong, healthy and vigorous. It fits for wifehood and the burdens of household duties. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It tones and builds up the nerves. It banishes the discomforts of the time of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. Thousands have testified to its merits.

Over 1000 pages of medical advice free. Send 50 one-cent stamps, to cover postage and mailing

NEW GOVERNOR

MEMBER FOR WEST HURON RECEIVES APPOINTMENT.

An Order-in-Council Passed at Ottawa—The New Lieutenant Governor Has Been a Prominent Member of the House of Commissioners for Many Years—Brief Biographical Sketch of Mr. Cameron.

Ottawa, May 30.—An order-in-council appointing M. C. Cameron M. P. for West Huron, lieutenant-governor of the Northwest Territories, was passed to day.

Malcolm Colin Campbell, barrister and legislator, is the son of the late Hon. Malcolm Cameron, formerly a member of the Canadian government, and a well known temperance advocate, and was born at Perth, Ont., April 12, 1832. Educated at Knox College, Toronto, he was called to the bar, 1860, and has for many years successfully practiced his profession in Goderich. He was for some time a member of the town council, and afterwards mayor of Goderich. A Liberal, he sat for South Huron in the house of commons, 1867-82, and for West Huron 1882-87, when defeated. He unsuccessfully contested the same constituency in February, 1892 (vote, Hon. J. C. Patterson, secretary of state, Conservative, 2,179; M. C. Cameron, Liberal, 2,154), but was returned in another bye-election in January, 1896, and re-elected at the Dominion general election, 1896.

He is the author of a pamphlet, "A Vile Conspiracy Exposed—Mr. M.
C. Cameron vindicated," (Goderich, 1892) which had reference to certain infamous charges brought against him by the Goderich Star, and for which charges he brought a criminal action against the Star, and secured a conviction, a withdrawal of the charges and an apology. He is a supporter of provincial rights, and was opposed to the coercion of Manitoba, though willing that any rights or privileges enjoyed by the Catholics of Manitoba prior to 1890, which had been encroached upon, should be restored to them by the province. In religion, a Presbyterian, he married in May, 1855, Jessie H., daughter of Dr. John McLean, late R. N.

The following occurs in a sketch of Mr. Cameron published in the Globe: "One of the fathers of Canadian politics, and one who has upheld the banner of Liberalism in the darkest days of the party."

—E. W. Miller, Qu'Appelle Station, General Inspector of Fisheries for the Territories, came in on last train. He will visit the different fishing lakes while here.— since Albert Times.

W. C. T. U. Column.

THE CHARGE OF THE DRINK BRIGADE.

Half a pint, half a pint, half a pint onward!
Into the public house rolled the six hundred;
Forward the drink brigade,
Charge for the beer, he said; Into the valley of death rolled the
six hundred.

Forward, the drink brigade!
Was there a man dismayed?
Not though each toper knew on one had blundered; hens not to make reply, hens not to reason why, theirs but to drink and die, into the valley of death, into the mouth of hell rolled the six hundred.

Barrels to right of them, barrels to left of them,
Barrels in front of them, onward they blundered,
Under beer's fatal spell,
Not one man looking well,
Into the public house,
Into the mouth of hell rolled the six hundred.

Flashed all their quart pots there, Flashed as they turned in air, Reddening their noses there, Charged by the landlord, while
All the world wondered.
Plunging through "baccie" smoke, Glasses and mugs they broke, Soaking and swilling;
Reeled when the landlord said,
"Time to go to bed!"
Then they all went, but not, not the
six hundred.

Bottles to right of them, bottles to
left of them,
Bottles behind them, broke in their pockets:
Stormed at by angry wives, out came their pocket knives, Who would insure their lives?
They that had drunk so well, Came through the jaws of death, Back from the mouth of hell, all that was left of them, Left of six hundred.

When will their bruises fade?
O what big fools they made!
All the world wondered.
Thick-headed charge they made, Thick-headed drink brigade, Senseless six hundred.
—"Uncle Edward," in the Temperance League Journal.

Chickney.

(From our own correspondent.)

Mr. and Mrs. S. Reeve, old residents of this place, left on the 24th for Michigan. They have not yet decided whether they will remain there or return to Chickney.

The farmers here who were fortunate enough to have a few bags of wheat left over after seeding have sold it for a high rate per bushel.

The esteemed teacher of our public school has had his responsibility increased, as several more scholars are now attending. We should think that the board of trustees will soon be contemplating hiring another teacher to assist Principal Brown.

Mr. J. Striech is erecting a fine brick residence on his place.

Sad Poisoning.

Portage la Prairie, May 31.—A young lady named Miss Brown, aged 20, living at Poplar Point, Man., was accidentally poisoned yesterday.
While visiting some friends living eight miles west of here, she took a tablespoonful of medicine from a bottle labelled "Salts," which contained strychnine instead. She died in a few minutes from the effects.
An inquest will probably be held.

The Gambling King.

On the summit they tell a good story of that high minded patriot and gambling king of Skagway.
Soapy Smith, Esq. When war was declared, he was equal to the emergency. As trade was dull in his own line, he took steps to raise a company of volunteers. The aplicants must present themselves at Capt. Soap's office for examination.
He had his own surgeon. A newspaper reporter thought to look into the matter and dropped in. He must strip in the outer office. Then he was examined in the inner room while his pockets were examined in the outer one. He could not pass physically, but found when he had gone outside that his pocket book had gone with $60.
Others were said to have had the same experience.—Free Press.

Newsy Notes.

The Virden Advance appears in a new dress of type.

The Islander, from the north, brings news of a murder at Sheep Camp, the victim being W. S.
Grigg, an auctioneer and merchant of that place who had incurred the ill will of the gambling element by moving to secure their suppression.
He was called out of the Hotel Montezuma by Pat Maloney, a Montana gambler, who had previously made threats against him and shot on his appearance.

Garfield King, a negro aged 18, was taken from the jail at Salisbury, Md., last week, hanged to a tree and shot to pieces. He was awaiting trial on a charge of deliberately shooting Herman Kenny, a white boy, aged 18.

John Dillon, aged 78, of Montreal, claims to be heir to the dormant Earldom of Roscommon, and will at once enter proceedings to obtain the title. The earldom became extinct in 1850, and Dillon alleges that he is next in the line.

Fred T. Moore, a paying teller at the National Bank of Commerce, Boston, left the city a few days ago and it is alleged his accounts are short from $30,000 to $50,000.

While corraling some horses at Morley the other day, one jumped out, breaking a rail off the fence, a part of which struck an Indian woman on the head, fracturing the skull. She died in half an hour.

The third call for volunteers is certain to be issued within the next two weeks. The President of the United States has become convinced that military forces for invasion will have to be enlarged. He estimates it will require a hundred and twenty five thousand men for Cuba, sixty thousand for the Philippines and thirty thousand for Porto Rico, besides many for home defence.

A Seattle dispatch says: Six dead bodies were brought from Alaska by the steamer "Rosalia," which arrived at midnight. They were those of the victims of the Chilean avalanche. It is reported that the work of digging for the bodies on the Chilcoot Pass is being carried on vigorously, and that many more bodies will be found.

A Sad Case.

"Of all the men I knowed that got into trouble with them lunko fellars," said the farmer meditatively, "Hiram Haystack had the worst luck."

"What happened to him?"
"Well, he got circulars from them fellars an' got writin' to 'em an' made arrangements to meet one of 'em in New York—just in the regular way—an' paid $100—all the money he had to spare—for a package containin' $1,000 in counterfeit bills."

"I s'pose you mean it was to contain counterfeit bills, but really had sawdust or somethin' like that?"
"No, it had counterfeit bills, an' pretty good lookin' ones at that?"

"An' what happened to Hiram?"
"He got five years fer tryin' to pass off them bills in this neighborhood."—New York Journal.
